Welcome to Computer Mentors

Computer Mentors Group, Inc. is a non-profit service organization comprised of computer professionals, and others interested in the future job opportunities of disadvantaged youths. We dedicate our time and talent to encourage and guide young people toward a career in the computer industry.

Our objective is to provide free, high quality computer literacy training and technology access to underprivileged families all across America. We are achieving this objective through training, jobs, and computer ownership for our low-income participants.

Student Profile: The Welch Brothers

Judicieux and J'aiChaim Welch are taking advantage of all the CMG activities and programs. Over the past year, they have progressed from having very minimal computer knowledge to developing a Flash Video Game using Adobe software. Both teens are a shining example of self motivation, determination, and focused driven efforts. We know, their parents, Jim and Cynthia Welch, are very proud of them.

Back in September, 2008, Judicieux and J'aiChaim signed-up to participate in the Tech Bowl. They were motivated by the opportunity to win Toshiba laptop computers. Their team, sponsored by IT Authorities, was the 2008 Tech Bowl winner. They happily accepted the laptops awarded to each member of the team. Win or lose, they had both decided to remain in the CMG Teen Program.
